In this twelfth edition of the Grizzly Growl it has been the purpose of the staff to record the various activities of El Dorado Junior College during the year 1938-39. E. J. C. has grown from a small group of less than one hundred students in 1927 to a body of almost three hundred and fifty members, of whom more than half come from outside the city proper. The College is housed in a part of the recently constructed Junior College-High School Building. A new concrete stadium is a recent addition to the Athletic Field which covers the equivalent of three or four city blocks. These buildings, the clubs, sports, and most important the personnel of Junior College are pictured in this book for you.

The Grizzly Growl of 1939 was published by the Junior College, El Dorado, Kansas. Oliver Hughes was editor and John Newacheck assistant editor. The Times Press of El Dorado printed the book and the engraving was done by the Mid-Continent Engraving Company of Wichita.

THE GRIZZLIES

F O O T B A L L . . . .

Football players don't like to pose for pictures, but after much threatening and with "Coach" Cornwell's help we made them stand still and "take it" like men. ¶The boys put in a lot of time and hard work attempting to represent Juco in an able manner. The Grizzly Growl, speaking for the student body, salutes this year's team for its excellent sportsmanship and untiring work under adverse circumstances. ¶The prospects for next year's team look good. Many players on the first team were freshmen and this should mean that we will have a strong team next year. ¶The men who lettered in football this year are: Stanley Young, Jack Shirk, Virgil Kelly, Roy Thompson, Calvin Jacoby, Glen Faunce, Harold Smith, Lee Brown, Dick Moss, Joe Fanello, Quentin Doty, Leon Cousland, Bob Hubbard, Ike Fowler, Clifford Cherryholmes, Jack Thomas, George Widner, Ivan Rich, Fred Robinson and Ed Brewer.

BASKETBALL . . . . .

The team this year not only played good basketball, but they also played the game in sportsmanlike manner. ¶“Tuffy” Robinson, cool and level-headed, made a most able captain. Even though the team did not rank high in the League standing, two of its members were given mention on the All State Team. Captain Robinson and “Bud” Thompson received this recognition. The pictures in the background show some of the good form and fire that the team had this year and also the cooperation and teamwork which characterized the 1938-1939 Juco basketball season. ¶Those men who lettered in Basketball this year are Ed Brewer, Otis Cross, Frank Gonzales, Homer Lear, Robert McClure, Martin Mahannah, Fred Robinson, Harold Smith and Roy Thompson.

Spring Sports

These pictures of Juco's track, tennis, and golf stars are not in the least deceptive. The teams look formidable, and so they proved to be in various meets and relays this spring. ¶Quality was predominant over quantity in our track squad. The high point men, Elmer Cross and diminutive Bud Smith, were ably supported by our distance men, Frank Gonzales and Wayne Reed. Our hurdle expert, Keith Miller, lived up to his high school reputation. The field event men, Tuffy Robinson, Francis Bell, and Martin Mahannah were consistent in their performance. The two mainstays of the relay team, Roy Boyer and Jack Shirk, were valuable, as is proven by the fact that, as yet, the team has never failed to place. ¶The wielders of the golf clubs and tennis racquets have acquitted themselves commendably. They have been consistent in their efforts in glorifying the purple and the gold.

Varsity Club....

Most familiar figures on the football field, basketball court, and track field this year have been these Juco boys. In game after game they participated for our Alma Mater. ¶From a small membership the Varsity Club grew by the addition of football players and organized for the year. Among the activities of the club the co-sponsoring of the annual Juco-High School basketball game was an outstanding success. The spring activities also included a banquet and dance.

In these pictures the members of the Science Club are shown with their sponsor, Mr. Coffman. The center of interest in the picture is the enlarger that the club has made. Most of the members have turned to photography as their chief work. This interest in photography has been the source of many candid camera shots about school and many fine prints developed and enlarged as club experiments. Others whose chief interest was not photography have made radio sets and worked on devices to improve their radios.

Pep Clubs

One windy March day a photographer climbed the steps and snapped the picture you see above, showing the Gold Diggers and Purple Pansies. These students, bedecked in their new pep sweaters have supplied the backing for the pep of the Junior College. ¶The two clubs cooperated in holding pep rallies at the theatre and giving their best efforts to supplying pep throughout the games. Chief celebration of the year was the white-washing of the Junior College letters, followed by a chili feed. ¶The clubs held banquets in honor of the members of the football and basketball teams.

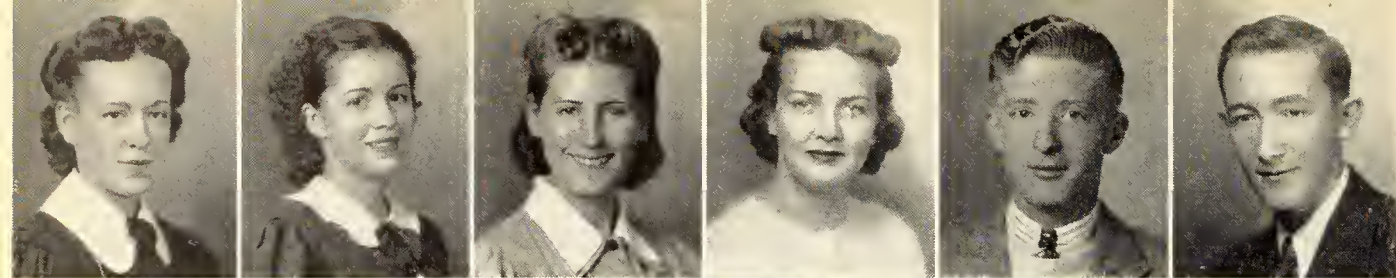

Another year has passed and perhaps a glance or two at this page reminds many of us of the unforgettable memories, perhaps pleasant or maybe sad and disillusioning, but at any rate—memories. . . . How exciting seemed the first day of school immediately followed by the All-school Mixer! An interesting program, followed by games and refreshments constituted the evening's entertainment. Do you remember the big school dance? A large number of Juco students and guests danced to the pleasing music of Peggy Shelden and her Squires. An outstanding event was the campaign and election for student President. Enthusiasm ran high as speeches were made, parades were held, and bands played. We also recall the hobo party held by the girls' pep club. Some of our classmates were scarcely recognizable that evening. . . . All in all, this page shows many familiar personalities including our cheer leaders, drum major, coach, and the proprietor of the Bungalow. Thus, hitting the highlights, we leave you to your memories.

The most discussed project of the Student Council this year was a recreation room for students in the building. The Council was successful in establishing a ping-pong and general game room, but it is felt that a lounge room with better furnishings is badly needed. Securing bands for dances was another accomplishment. ¶Among future policies recommended were dormitories for out-of-town students, a more liberal athletic program, a publicity campaign to educate El Dorado as to the importance of the Junior College, and a radical reform in assemblies. ¶Officers were Leon Cousland, President; George Grist, Vice President; John Newacheck, secretary-treasurer. Other members were Dale Thrasher, Oscar Brumback, Mildred Martin, Arden Butel, Bub Stafford, Hoyt Smith, Oliver Hughes, Delbert McNamee, Eleanor Ellis, Gene Barnes, Rosemary Gfeller, John Newacheck, Bob Orr, Lowell Fowler, Don Plantz, Earl Forgy, Christine Hughes, and Charlotte Leap. Miss Beuchat, Mr. Shumway, and Dean Walker were the sponsors.

Student Council

Publications

All of the parties, plays, scandals, sports, and activities were rolled into one and called "Juco Life." These events were recorded in our official Junior College paper the Grizzly Growl. ¶Mr. Greenbank of the Butler County News again allowed the publication of the Grizzly Growl in his newspaper. The staff was not large, but through the efforts of a few members "Juco" was furnished the news and the chatter typical of school. ¶The Journalism Club members are Betty Rose Whitestine, Leon McCreight, Eva May Patty, Mary Pauline Feder, Oscar Brumback, Christine Hughes, Bob Stafford, Marguerite Logan, Mary White, Lovina Fowler, and Violet Hampton. The sponsor of the club is Mr. G. H. Crooks.

Grizzly Growl Staff

In the Grizzly Growl of 1939 the staff has attempted to change from the traditional style of college year books by making the annual mainly a pictorial account of the year's activities through the use of large action pictures. Rather than catalogued material in write-ups a strenuous effort has been made to make the articles readable, short and interesting, somewhat in the manner of the modern picture magazines. ¶The Student Council elected Oliver Hughes as Editor and John Newacheck as Assistant. They, with the aid of Miss Ruth Milford, faculty advisor, selected the rest of the staff: Christine Hughes, Winona Allen, Jeanette Penwell, Bert Dace, Mary Pauline Feder, Betty J anne Daniel, Bob Reed, and Bob Carter.

Dramatics

Here you see the work and the personnel of the two dramatic organizations, Pi Delta Theta and Delta Psi Omega. The first and the last pictures are tense scenes from the fall play, "Ceiling Zero". The second picture shows the members of Delta Psi Omega in what appears to be a solemn conclave. And directly beneath appears the dramatics club, Pi Delta Theta, in its usual meeting place, Mr. Nixon's room. No scenes from the spring play, "Seven Sisters," are given here because it was produced late this spring, but those who saw it will remember it as a colorful and amusing comedy. After the spring play Pi Delta Theta held "open house" on the stage. ¶Both of the plays were very ably presented under the direction of Mr. Nixon, who is also sponsor of the two Juco dramatic organizations.

George Grist, a leader in the forensic world, says that debaters have more fun than anybody. What George really means is that debaters meet more girls than anybody. In looking through our debate notes for the year we find Mary (1242J) in Dodge City, Helen (476W) in Hutchinson, Helen (3427) in Tonkawa, so on ad infinitum. But debaters work also, for to be even a poor debater one must have a thorough knowledge of the question which was: Resolved: "That the United States should cease to use public funds for the purpose of stimulating business." It is readily seen that this question gives opportunity for a great deal of controversy and it is the universal opinion among debaters that the more they study the question of "pump priming" the less sure they are what should be done about it. Included in the activities of the forensics squad this season were extemporaneous speaking oratory, formal debate, round table discussion, dramatic reading, and oratorical declamation.

Above are seen the six boys and sponsor who formed the cabinet of the Young Men's Christian Association in Juco this year. With Wendell Tarmen at its head, Wayne Bare as vice-president, Leon McCreight as secretary-treasurer, Barrett Arthur as program chairman, and Edward Brumback, reporter the Y. M. has made much progress. Mr. Childs gave freely of his time to the success of this organization as its sponsor, and John Newacheck acted as student council representative. ¶These boys with the help of others interested in the work of the association, worked in commission groups, attended state conferences and held interesting meetings throughout the year. In order that many should receive the benefit of the programs of the Y. M. every meeting was open to all Junior College men.

Y. M. C. A.

Nellie Mae Nicholas, president, rises; the Cabinet Members slowly stop chattering; the words "The meeting will please come to order" are heard. And so a YWCA cabinet begins its monthly meeting. ¶At the YWCA meeting every other Tuesday in room 1-2 the members enjoy many educational and interesting lectures and discussions. The YWCA holds an important place among organizations and clubs of El Dorado Junior College, helping both in the religious and the social life of the student. Conferences (both state and regional), candy-making, discussion groups, a get-acquainted party, and other equally diverse activities filled the 1938-1939 Y. W. C. A. Calendar.
